

Call for papers special issue: Migrations

The journal Desarrollo y Sociedad (eISSN 1900-7760) from the Department of Economics and the Center of Studies on Economic Development (CEDE) at Universidad de Los Andes, in association with the group of journals of Universidad de Los Andes, invites to participate in the call for the special issue number 88 (October 2021). This issue aims to disseminate unpublished articles on research, review, and reflection in economics related to the analysis, impact assessment or modeling of the behavior of migrations in the last years.

This call was born to study the phenomenon of migrations in an interdisciplinary way. To achieve this goal, Universidad de Los Andes creates a global special edition, where the group of journals produced from the different departments of the University is joining efforts to motivate the analysis of migrations from different perspectives.

Invited editor: Ana María Ibáñez (BID-Uniandes)

Interested authors should submit the final versions of their work (in PDF format) through the platform Scholar One (<https://mc04.manuscriptcentral.com/rdys>). Authors should follow the author guidelines of the journal: <https://revistas.uniandes.edu.co/for-authors/dys/tips-for-authors>. More information: <https://revistas.uniandes.edu.co/journal/dys>.

Submission open date:

The call opens the reception of manuscripts on September 1st, 2020

Submissions deadline:

The deadline for submission of manuscripts is March 20th, 2021

Publication:

The special edition will launch in October 2021